

Kimstim PRESENTS JEREMIAH ZAGAR'S STUNNING TRUE-CRIME DOC

CAPTIVATED The Trials of Pamela Smart

"MASTERFUL" - ENTERTAINMENT WEEKLY

"A fascinating and haunting meditation on American's flawed justice." - VICE

"There has never been a more insightful look than Jeremiah Zagar's brilliant documentary" - FORBES

"It makes us reconsider the chilling effect live cameras in the courtroom have on ... everyone." - THE BOSTON HERALD

"Thoroughly engrossing - far more fascinating than fiction." - THE ONION A/V CLUB

"Proves you don't always know what you think you know- fascinating" - L.A. WEEKLY

"A fascinating look at the birth of the court trial as televised spectacle, and how the packaging and repackaging of 'real-life' stories inevitably turns them into fiction." - THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

A small-town murder in New England became one of the highest-profile cases of the twentieth century. As the first fully televised court case, the Pamela Smart trial rattled the consciousness of America. But did the media circus surrounding the case prevent a fair trial? Pulsating with sex, drugs, betrayal, and murder, the trial inspired 20 years of television shows, books, plays, and movies, including To Die For, starring Nicole Kidman and directed by Gus Van Sant.
